

5 DUTIES OF A FIRE MARSHAL

A Fire Marshal plays a crucial role in commercial businesses. Here are the top 5 duties of a Fire Marshal.

DID YOU KNOW

50%

less than 50% of people know how to confidently use a fire extinguisher

22%

of non domestic fires are caused by faulty appliances or leads

1

It only takes 1 training session for you to become a qualified Fire Marshal

1. IMPLEMENT EMERGENCY PROCEDURES

Emergency procedures include raising the alarm, an effective fire evacuation strategy, correct selection of fire extinguishers, assembly point calls and providing assistance to others.

2. ASSIST WITH FIRE RISK CONTROL MEASURES

Also known as a fire risk assessment, this is a procedure that is crucial in spotting potential risks. As a Fire Marshal you should assist with the upkeep of a fire risk assessment.

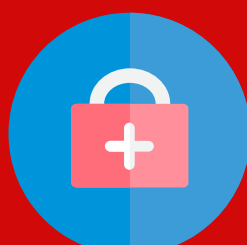

3. RAISE STAFF AWARENESS

It's a legal requirement in commercial settings to be trained in fire safety procedures. A fire training course will be able to raise staff awareness and equip employees with the necessary skills in the event of a fire.

4. LEAD FIRE DRILLS & EVACUATION PROCEDURES

Based on your emergency procedures and strategies, fire and evacuation drills should be effective and efficient. Ideally you should have regular fire drills, at least once a year.

5. TO ASSIST ALL IN THE WORKPLACE

As a Fire Marshal, it is your duty to assist in any requirements or concerns regarding fire safety in the building.